SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico – The healthcare real estate and investment group that owns two Alpharetta-based assisted living facilities has recently opened the first assisted living and memory care facility in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Milton L. Cruz, president of MedHoldings, said The Residence is licensed for 85 residents. The 40,000-square-foot property includes suites that have kitchenette and full private bathrooms.

Other amenities include two restaurant-style dining rooms, gym and physical therapy room, beauty parlor, libraries and activities. Staff includes gerontologists, geriatric physicians, nurses and resident assistants.

The facility is managed by Insignia Senior Living. MedHoldings affiliates operate 16 senior communities in Georgia, Florida and Puerto Rico. In Alpharetta, the group runs The Gardens of Roswell and Tapestry House. For more information, visit www.medholdings.com.
